The Cost of Ginseng.

In England we have been accustomed to pay high prices for certain drugs for ages, such as quinine, cocaine and others, but a drug is used in New China which in actual value far surpasses anything which has been known here.

The substance in question is called ginseng and is the root of Aralia quifolia. It is so highly valued as a tonic and stimulant medicine in China that it is sold at from 20 to 250 times its weight in silver, sometimes for 350 times that amount. Authorities state, however, that it possesses no important medicinal properties. Next to China the drug is produced in good quality in Corea and is the principal article of export from Corea into China. So much is this the case that the Coreans are loath to part with any seeds of the plant lest their practical monopoly in this root should be invaded.

The wonder is that with such a much used commodity at such a price steps are not taken to cultivate it in sufficient quantity so as to adjust the balance between supply and demand. The reduction, for example, in the price of quinine was largely the result of increased cultivation of the cinchona plant, and the same may be said of cocaine in respect to the coca plant.—Pearson's Weekly

Mental Emotion and Jaundice.

The connection of simple jaundice with sudden mental emotion is generally admitted. Such facts as the following are not uncommon: A young woman becomes yellow at the discovery of her misdeeds; another on hearing that her fiancé was killed; a young man on being discharged from office because he had not grown tall enough.

Simple jaundice is often followed by acute yellow atrophy, which is also known to be directly caused by shock. In this form of jaundice there is always disorganization of the liver cells. Even cancer may have a like origin.—Exchange

TOWN ORDINANCE.

TOWN ORDINANCE NO. 39.

Of the Town of Reno, Washoe County, Nevada.

(Adopted June 24, 1893.)

AN ORDINANCE CREATING A BOARD of Health in the town of Reno, Washoe County, Nevada, and matters connected therewith, adopted June 24, 1893.

Section 1. There is hereby created and established in the town of Reno, Washoe County, Nevada, a Board of Health, to consist of three reputable practicing physicians and residents of said town, who shall exercise supervision of the general health of the town and have full power to take all measures necessary to promote the health thereof.

Section 2. Said Board of Health shall be appointed by the Board of County Commissioners, and their term of office shall be for one year, and they shall hold office until their successors are elected for the short term.

Section 3. It shall be the duty of said Board, whenever in its judgment the town is threatened with or infected by an epidemic, infectious or contagious disease, to issue, or cause to be issued, orders, regulations and instructions as may be in their judgment deemed effective for the prevention, removal or limitation of such disease, which orders, regulations and instructions shall be published in the daily papers for such period of time as shall be determined by said Board, such orders, regulations and instructions shall remain in full force and effect until by said Board revoked, modified or amended in such manner as in the judgment of said Board may be deemed necessary or expedient.

Section 4. Whenever it shall appear to said Board that any person has been attacked by any contagious or infectious disease, such person shall be removed to such place as may be designated, but if such person refuses to be removed, or if his or her condition is such that such removal would be attended with danger, then such measures shall immediately be taken as may be deemed necessary to prevent the spread of the contagion or infection, and to cause any such person or persons who are so infected to be isolated and quarantined and to prevent the ingress or egress of any person or persons as may be deemed necessary.

Section 5. All persons having small-pox or any contagious disease, or control of any town, who shall refuse or cannot be taken to a place prepared or designated for them, shall be removed to such place as may be designated by said Board, and shall remain in their respective dwellings or places of abode, and to obey such orders, regulations as may be adopted by said Board of Health; and any person failing to comply with the requirements of this section shall be deemed guilty of a nuisance and shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than five dollars and not more than ten dollars, and shall be liable for the cost of such removal and confinement.

Section 6. Any person suffering from any infectious or contagious disease who willfully exposes himself or herself in any street, public place or conveyance, or any person having the charge or control of any such person in said town, who shall permit such person to be exposed to the public, or who sells, lends, transmits or exposes any clothing, bedding, rags or other thing or things which shall have been exposed to such disease, or any person who shall let any person any such disease, without having such room or house completely disinfected to the satisfaction of the Board of Health, shall on conviction be fined not less than ten nor more than five hundred dollars.

Section 7. The proprietor of any hotel, boarding house, tenement house, lodging house, or other place in the town shall, in the event of any person living in such house becoming infected with any infectious or contagious disease, at once notify the Board of Health, and shall be liable for the cost of giving the notice herein provided, the person so offending shall upon conviction, be fined not less than ten nor more than five hundred dollars for each and every offense.

Section 8. Whenever any person or railroad company shall be exposed to infection, or shall indicate an attack of small-pox or other contagious disease, or shall indicate whenever such fact shall come to the knowledge of conductor or person in charge of such train, as to suppose that any person on his train is attacked with small-pox or is infected with the disease, he shall be the duty of such conductor or the person so having the train in charge, before he shall have reached a point within twelve miles of the town limits, to telegraph such fact to the Board of Health or to some member thereof; and whenever it shall be impossible to send such telegram, said conductor or said person having such train in charge, and having a person on board so suspected by him of having small-pox or other infectious or contagious disease, shall retain such person upon the train upon reaching Reno until he shall have notified the Board of Health or some member thereof of such fact, and until a reasonable time shall have elapsed after such notice for the Board of Health to take charge of such party. Any conductor failing to comply with the requirements of this section shall, upon conviction, be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars.

Section 9. The Board of Health shall have the power to appoint any and all necessary officers and agents in carrying into effect any rule adopted by them or ordinance of the town, or law of the State, relating to infectious or contagious disease or the sanitary condition of the town.

Section 10. It is hereby made the duty of the Chief of Police of the town of Reno to attend upon the Board of Health, and to see that the orders of the Board are carried into effect, and to see that in carrying out their orders.

O. EVANS, Clerk.

Rules and Suggestions of the Board of Health.

INASMUCH AS THERE HAVE BEEN cases of diphtheria in Reno and new cases appearing, notwithstanding the efforts of the attending physicians and the Board, and there seems to be danger of its becoming epidemic, as the Board of Health is empowered by the laws of the State, to do as it may deem proper, the Board of Health do hereby make the following rules and suggestions, which shall be in full force and effect from and after the date of their adoption.

RULE 1.—All cases of diphtheria or other contagious diseases shall be reported to the attending physician to the Secretary of the

TOWN ORDINANCE.

Board of Health at his office, as soon as said physician is satisfied that the case is contagious.

RULE 2.—At once upon the report of such case, the Chief of Police will be instructed to post notice, naming the disease, upon the house wherein it is, and shall place said premises, or such portion of them as are deemed necessary by him, under quarantine, and no person shall be allowed ingress or egress without consent of attending physician.

RULE 3.—During the course of and upon the termination of the sickness there shall be used such means of disinfecting as shall be directed by physician in attendance.

RULE 4.—The above rules (1, 2 and 3) shall continue in force till such time as a certificate, signed by the physician who has the case in charge, be presented to the Chief of Police, stating that the disinfecting of premises, furniture and clothing has been thorough, and in his opinion there is no further danger of infection, when notice will be removed and quarantine raised.

RULE 5.—No person dying from diphtheria shall be buried other than in private, and as soon as circumstances will permit after death, without special consent from this Board.

RULE 6.—We hereby, upon power vested in us by Section 9 of said ordinance, appoint all justices and deputy constables in the town of Reno to act with the Chief of Police in enforcing above ordinance and rules. We earnestly request the aid of our citizens, feeling that they can do much by their cooperation in reporting cases of suspected disease and premises known by them to be in an unsanitary condition, but we cannot act upon any such reports unless they are made in writing with the signature of complainant attached. In this way we feel that the heads of families can do more than by publishing resolutions in the papers taken entirely from hearsay.

RULE 7.—It shall be the duty of the Chief of Police and constables to arrest all persons refusing to obey the provisions of this ordinance and these rules, and they will be dealt with as provided.

RULE 8.—We hereby order the above rules published with Ordinance No. 39 in both our daily papers for one week. In order that their purpose and result may be fully and thoroughly accomplished, we invite the cooperation of all the resident physicians in necessary which we are aware of, and we thank them for their interest and efforts in cases past.

SUGGESTIONS.

It is suggested to physicians in charge of cases of diphtheria to see that the patient be isolated as nearly as possible and that only such furniture be left in the sick room as necessity requires.

It is suggested during the heated period that all water and milk used be boiled.

It is further suggested that all premises be scrupulously clean, no decaying vegetation especially being allowed.

Such rules and suggestions will be added from time to time as occur and necessity requires.

Adopted at a meeting of the Board of Health held August 27, 1893.

LOW PRICES.

Wheat is lower at the seaboard than ever before in the history of the country. It brings a fraction over a cent a pound in the great commercial centers and of course less in the interior. This farmers claim, does not cover the cost of production and so long as prices keep as low as at present the business must be carried on at a loss or abandoned. In Washington state the business agent of the Farmers' Alliance has proposed to the farmers to store their wheat and, as they must have money to pay for harvesting it, mortgage it for 25 cents a bushel until better prices can be obtained. This proposition meets with some favor and it will probably be adopted in many parts of the state.

The attention of farmers was directed to the fact some time ago that wheat and cotton follow the fortunes of silver. When the metal advances in price farm products keep pace with it, and when it declines they go down with it. Now, in consequence of the determination of the gold trust to prevent the purchase or coinage of silver, the price of the metal is lower than at any previous period in ancient or modern times and farm products are correspondingly cheap. Neither silver mining nor farming is profitable; cattle men say there is not much money in producing beef for the market at present prices and woolgrowers complain that they have to rustle to make ends meet. As misery is said to love company it may be consoling to state that Nevada is just as well off as other states and is not an exception to the general rule. Let us take a hopeful view of the situation. This depression and the present congress will not last forever. Next year the people will have it in their power to choose a house of representatives that will legislate for the masses rather than the classes and endeavor to suit the financial views of the people of the United States rather than please the money kings of London and Berlin and their Wall street agents.

SILVER FOR SHERMAN.

Senator Sherman is endeavoring to show that Senator Stewart at one time believed in the single gold standard. Commenting on this effort on the part of the Ohio goldbug to make it appear that one of the leaders in the free coinage movement was in the remote past a gold advocate, the San Francisco Chronicle says:

There is great glee over the quotation made by John Sherman, which seems to indicate that at one time Senator Stewart believed that the single gold standard would be the best for the country. If Stewart ever entertained such views and has changed them, he forms one of the numerous and distinguished company of men of capacity, without devoting any study to the question, pronounced judgment against bimetalism, but it is noteworthy that some of the best thinkers in this country and the old world, after careful investigation, have changed their opinions. A majority of the royal commission appointed by the English government to inquire into the matter reported that bimetalism was not only impracticable but desirable, and most of those who arrived at this conclusion were originally advocates of the single gold standard. But Senator Stewart will hardly care to defend his change of view; he will be more concerned to prove that the principles he advocates are sound, which will prove a less difficult task than it would for John Sherman to demonstrate that it was an honest conviction which induced him to abandon the contention he once made, that a bondholder who paid 65 cents in greenbacks for government securities was not entitled to receive gold when the bonds were paid off. If it comes to stirring up charges of views the atmosphere of the United States senate chamber will become very sultry for John Sherman.

Senator Stewart promised to give a full and true history of the demonetization act of 1873. When he does this he will doubtless fully explain the remark attributed to him by Senator Sherman, and show the Orlan, who was chairman of the senate finance committee in 1872-3, from the Congressional Globe, which contained the official report of congress, that he has been misrepresented.

The Gazette Publishing Co. seems to have lost its head or its senses. It is as incoherent as the moon, everything, except an earnest friend of free coinage, by turns, and nothing very long. It takes umbrage at the JOURNAL's comments on the course of the politicians in congress, but does not dare to deny or attempt to refute what the JOURNAL has asserted. It seems as if every stockholder in the Publishing Company took turns editing the paper, as upon no other hypothesis can its Republican-Democratic-Non partisan-Goldbug vagaries be accounted for.

"Now what do you think of national party platforms?" asks the Denver News. Both old parties pledged to bimetalism and a majority of the congressmen in each of the great political parties voted against it. Who will now deny that "political platforms are merely molasses to catch flies?"

The sultan of Turkey is twelve times a widower. A dozen of the most beautiful women in the imperial harem died suddenly from blood poisoning, resulting from vaccination. One hundred and sixty-seven wives survived the operation, so the sultan is not wholly inconsolable.

"Stop talking about silver and agitating the free coinage question and go to farming," say the goldbugs. "There is no profit in producing wheat at $16 or $17 a ton and we must abandon the business," say the farmers.

DETERMINED SILVER MEN.

They will fight to the bitter end.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The action of Voorhees in calling for a vote on the repeal bill will tend to keep the senators regular in their attendance. It will also keep silver men constantly on the alert and on the defensive, for if they know at each pause of the debate that Voorhees will be pressing for a vote they will be compelled to keep one or more of their men in the chamber ready to take the floor at a moment's notice. The silver men will not allow a vote until they are unable to hold the door longer. That's the point to which the fight will finally be brought for the men from the silver states will never consent to a vote any other way. It is doubtful if the Democratic majority would ever consent to the adoption of cloture, no matter how long the talk might be strung out.

What the free coinage men seek by the delay was indicated by Vance. He urged the advocates of silver to wait a little while longer, and spoke of the improvement already going on in business throughout the country. The silver men hope if they can delay a vote long enough, the condition of the country will be sufficiently improved to weaken the demand of the people upon the Senate for action, and in this way finally to get the advocates of repeal to consent to some sort of a compromise.

Telegraphic Notes.

The authorities of Jersey City are taking vigorous methods to prevent the spread of cholera.

The veterans are assembling at Indianapolis where the grand national encampment meets next week.

Postmaster Dayton of New York, acting under instructions from Washington, took forcible possession of the federal building occupied by J. I. Davenport, U. S. supervisor of election.

The statement of the week is: Reserve, increase, $5,170,000; loans, decrease, $3,438,000; specie, increase, $2,123,000; deposits, increase, $3,550,000; circulation, increase, $1,131,000. The banks now hold $1,568,000 below the requirements of the rule.

Catholic Education Day at the world's fair attracted large crowds from all the principal cities of the west. Festival hall was crowded when the exercises began. Archbishop Frehan delivered the address of welcome, followed by Archbishop Hennessy of Dubuque on "The Catholic View of Education," Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, Judge Morgan O'Brien of New York, T. J. Gargan of Boston and other prominent Catholics delivered addresses.

The feeling against Chinese in many California towns is intense. At Redlands a company of the National Guard was called out and a number of extra policemen sworn in to protect the Chinese, but no attempt was made to disturb them. At Selma the Chinese houses were raided and they claim to have lost $2,000 in coin and considerable other property. At San Bernardino the militia were under arms all night and the Chinese were barricaded, but no attempt was made to drive them out.

THE EFFECTS OF MISRULE.

What the Old Parties Have Done for Nevada.

Nevada has less than 1,000 men at work in her mines where there were at one time over 35,000 and their helpers, not including those who made their living directly through the miners. About 200 men are at work on the Comstock. At Tascorora there is not a man at work on any of the company mines. The same can also be said of Eureka, Unionville and Star City, Austin, Pioche and every camp in the state. And this is all brought about by Democratic and Republican misrule and abuse power.

Opening of Schools Postponed.

The Trustees of the Reno Public School held a meeting last evening and decided to postpone the opening of the schools until next Wednesday morning. The period of development of diphtheria germs is from two to not more than eight days, and in view of the fact that eight full days have not elapsed since the last fatal case of the dreaded disease, the Board decided that it would be better and safer under the circumstances to postpone the time for opening the schools until Wednesday morning.

Burned His Cabin.

The little cabin on the vacant lot south of the depot, owned and heretofore occupied by Alva Gould, the old gentleman recently removed to the hospital, was destroyed yesterday by order of the board of health; the board having decided that the most effective way to destroy any possible disease germs that might be lurking therein, was to burn the structure, and the order was promptly obeyed.

Opening of the State University.

The training school will also open on Wednesday.

A prompt observance of these times is respectfully requested.

Ayer's Pills

Are compounded with the view to general usefulness and adaptability. They are composed of the purest vegetable aperients. Their delicate sugar-coating, which readily dissolves in the stomach, preserves their full medicinal value and makes them easy to take, either by old or young. For constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, and the common derangements of the Stomach, Liver, and Bowels; also, to check colds and fevers, Ayer's Pills

Are the Best

Unlike other cathartics, the effect of Ayer's Pills is to strengthen the excretory organs and restore to them their regular and natural action. Doctors everywhere prescribe them. In spite of immense competition, they have always maintained their popularity as a family medicine, being in greater demand now than ever before. They are put up both in vials and boxes, and whether for home use or travel, Ayer's Pills are preferable to any other. Have you ever tried them?

UNDER THE DOME.

The Situation—Speech of David B. Hill—The Respective Positions of Voorhees and Hill—The Effect of Hill's Speech.

(By C. D. Van Duzer.)

The present period in American politics will be memorable in American history. It is during such critical periods when the spirit of the people is restless and their feelings easily stirred to the point of resentment that men of prominence who have too long coquetted with public opinion and the people's patience are forever retired to the shades of political obscurity and new and untried men are brought forward for trial. The struggle to establish some cardinal principle or permanent American policy as a part of our social economy is always accompanied with a restless condition followed by a political upheaval and the party which has triumphantly established the principle for which it has fought so long is usually given an indefinite lease of power. The prominent party thus brought in on a popular wave lives thereafter, not on its present activity, but on its past glory; not on what it does, but what it has done. The birth of every governmental policy gives rise to a new party. Every party has a mission to fulfill and when its policy has been established and its mission is performed it is only allowed by the generous suzerainty of the people's supreme will to exist until the ever shifting conditions make it imperative that it give way to a party of new progression, more nearly allied to the people's ideas and less inoculated with the power and corruption that comes from a long dominancy.

NEW PARTIES.

Every student of political history has read of the rise and fall of parties in American politics and knows that their birth is co-eval with some new principle to be established or some wrong that demands redress. The eliminating of slavery from our social institutions produced the Republican party. That mission accomplished, it has been held in power by the grateful remembrance of the American people during that period which marks its alliance with that which the people demanded. Through force of circumstances the Democratic party has always been the party of negation. We have now arrived at the time when the demand for a sound and stable financial policy, which shall benefit alike the rich and the poor, is no longer to be ignored. No question since the civil war has so engaged the attention of the American people. If the Republican party cannot do it, if the Democratic party, which faithfully promises to do it, does not fulfill the pledges faithfully made, then it is but a logical deduction borne out by history and observation that the American people will form a party whose mission shall be to give to the American people that which they demand and desire.

Men who have trained with a party hesitate long before severing their connection with it. There is to be found in all countries a shifting element ever ready for change. Men of no particular principle, except self-laudation, form the elementary foundation of all new parties and necessarily serve to cast nothing but ignominy and ridicule upon it. As a new party leaves with intelligence these men are weeded out. They have their part in the genesis of a party just as certain animals have their place in the economy of nature. Several years ago the country had the first premonitory warnings of discontent that retired such men as McKinley and Ingalls and last year another warning produced such men as Simpson, Peffer, Waite, Lewelling and Pennoyer. As certainly as we exist as a nation if the Democratic party fail of their promise to the people and the Republicans do not heed their twice-sounded warning, the above-mentioned men will be hailed as the patriots and saviors of their country before another decade has passed away, with the free coinage of silver and the raising and bettering of the laboring class as the two cardinal principles of a new party with the early isms eliminated.

CONFRONTED WITH SERIOUS PROBLEMS.

To-day the American people have arrived at a period in their history where they are confronted with the most serious problems of government with which its statesmen have ever had to grapple. No subject so engages the attention of mankind as the financial conditions upon which the very foundations of government rest. Strange as it may seem the wisdom of our most brilliant men have failed to offer us a sound and stable policy or such as have been presented have been refused by a selfish moneyed clique. For twenty years under rapidly changing conditions we have been resorting to a series of makeshifts and unbecoming compromises which were dealt out as opiates to a restless people. Such a course has been eminently unworthy a nation, the bloom of whose civilization is the admiration of mankind. The continued amassing of large individual fortunes, the rapid growth of our large cities with a preponderance of foreign population, the wide chasm which is opening between the few rich and the many poor have made the times ripe for earnest, vigorous demand for a sound and stable currency which shall benefit alike the miner of the west, the wheat-grower of the Mississippi valley, the cotton-grower of the south and the laborer of New England. Thus the lines are being clearly defined and tightly drawn, which must engage the attention of the people until settled, even if settled at the cost of disintegration of party lines. The people of America are as numerous as the sand of the sea coast and shore. The winds of agitation are blowing, and like the Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

sands under a steady wind they are shifting and changing, slowly yet swiftly and potentially. We are on the eve of a grand political disintegration. We have arrived at one of those momentous periods when statesmen are needed and when the exigencies and opportunities of the time produce Daniels whose judgment forecast the future paths and Moses, whose faith lead out of the wilderness of wrong and oppression. This condition is plainly apparent to one who can listen to the debates in congress. But a few years ago for a man from the south to even slur the potency of party was a crime, to threaten treason and to act with independence political death. To-day men stand up in congress who have trained with the old parties for years and boldly proclaim independence. The west asserted herself in no uncertain way last fall. The south was kept in line on promises, but if deceived now the breach is widened forever. Bryan of Nebraska sounds the warning Bland of Missouri bids his brethren farewell. Americans first, partisans afterwards. Sentiments as patriotic as ever uttered in '76. Hatch of Missouri, a staunch, able Democrat, says to Democracy, put on the brakes or you are on the road to ruin. Thus far and no farther can we follow. A man from South Carolina, after landing the early Jeffersonian principles, turns his invective against his party at present and says: "If this be treason make the most of it." No such spectacle was ever before witnessed in a Democratic congress. I have too much faith in the loyal Americanism that must permeate every man's nature to believe that those warnings are idle threats. The strain is too intense. The demand of the people is like the murmur of distant thunder. If the men who have thus said that they would part company with their party still continue to train with that party, headed as it is by a golden personification, I have no doubt for the future of our country. Promises are as easily broken as made. There is at least a limit to all human endurance.

HILL AND VOORHEES.

Within the past week two speeches of more than usual interest and importance have been made in the senate. Though somewhat similar in sentiment yet the unique position which the two men occupy as regards the administration render the effect of their utterances as widely different. The speeches made were by Voorhees and Hill. Voorhees was the spokesman of the administration and under the guise of advocacy of free silver made a speech the inconsistency of which has called forth universal criticism. Regarded as a man most favorable to free coinage, whose every public utterance has been for free silver, the Janus attitude assumed by the Hoosier statesman in his servile following of his master has placed him in a most unenviable position. Yet to one familiar with his record little else could be expected. A trimmer, a follower without principle, occupies a secondary position in the politics of the nation.

Hill is a bold, independent statesman whose following and independence make him a power from which even Cleveland and his administration must shrink. He is a leader of men, whose shrewdness and ability, whose hitherto consistent utterances on public questions may be depended upon. The two men represent two schools in statesmanship, or more properly speaking, two schools in politics. They both view each other in their supposed allegiance to silver and bimetalism; both made free coinage speeches. The question arises, the utterance of which man may we accept with sincerity? From whom may we expect truest support for silver? From a careful observation and from a careful study of their past records; from a consideration of their present respective positions and an analysis of the underlying motives which may have prompted their respective courses, I am inclined to think the views of David B. Hill as sincere a one of more importance to the future of bimetalism than those made by any man who has yet made public his views on silver. True it is that both advocated repeal. But Voorhees advocated repeal because it was Cleveland's desire, while Hill does so because it is his sincere belief that it opens up the way for free coinage. The key to the whole situation may be readily gained when we consider their position toward the present administration. Cleveland, without doubt, is wedded to the gold standard. He has led the onslaught for years on silver. His past record has been in the highest degree antagonistic to silver, to the west and to its interests. He has made Voorhees his spokesman. He has made him chairman of the finance committee. To him is entrusted the fight for repeal. Every act, every utterance made by Voorhees is for repeal. How then can we expect anything from a man so completely subservient to Cleveland, no matter how sweet and honeyed his utterances may be for silver? Is a man regarded as a friend to your cause who trains with and lives with and leads the enemy against you? Hill is independent and antagonistic to the administration. One thing is certain, Cleveland has not one iota of influence over him. Therefore he is all right on that score. His utterances are as free and untrammelled, so clear and free from double construction that there is no retreat. Hill is a silver man from conviction. Whether he is bidding for 1896 and catering to the west or not no man in public life can afford to perjure himself to the extent that Hill would if he retreated from his present position. It is a favorable omen when a man like Hill representing the great state of New York comes out boldly for silver.

While it is to be regretted that he favors repeal, yet it is one step for us, one more convert gained.

DAVID B. HILL.

Concerning whom so much has been said and written is an interesting figure in American politics and is certain to be a great factor in the future. He is shrewd, keen, alert, active and sagacious. He is the only man in America in the Democratic party who can successfully oppose the administration. While not an orator, his utterances are statesman-like, and he is listened to and his words carry weight. He has a cool, impassive, collected delivery and as he stands erect with perfect composure reading his manuscript one might take him for a typical Presbyterian minister. The senate chamber was filled. A perfect mass of humanity filled the galleries and his speech has been the theme of newspaper editorials for the past week. The New York press, irrespective of party, denounces him and his speech in bitter terms. The papers of opposite political faith would naturally do so, but for the gold press of his own party to do so, signifies that his utterances were anything but pleasing to them.

HILL'S SPEECH.

The following extracts taken from his speech denote his position.

"Some portion of the present panic may be traced to a concerted effort on the part of numerous monometallists to produce it, in order to further discredit silver as a part of the standard money of the country. The fact is apparent every where we turn. We observe it in their senseless arguments constantly used against bimetallic coinage."

"Free bimetallic coinage is not witchcraft, it is business."

"It will be observed from what has already been stated that the permanent remedy for our financial difficulties is a return to the bimetallic which existed prior to 1873. Nothing else will do it. We have tried every thing but the right thing. It has been stated over and over again during the present debate, especially in the other house, that the country has tried the experiment of silver coinage and that it has proved a failure, and that therefore we should return to a gold standard. The country has not tried free coinage since it was unwittingly abandoned in 1873, but it has tried a limited and restricted coinage, silver purchases, the accumulation of silver bullion, and a depreciated currency, all of which have been forced upon the country by monometallists through miserable compromises obtained from silver men."

"If I believed for one moment that the repeal of the Sherman law would injure the cause of bimetalism and would be the means of placing or tending to place the country upon a gold standard I should never vote for it."

Hill's speech is well worthy of being read and is to be found in the record of August 26 pages 641 to 649.

TO MY NEVADA READERS.

I believe there is no graver responsibility resting on man than that imposed on the faithful journalist, whose duty it is to chronicle events as he finds them, not as he may see them through his own narrow vision. To tell the truth at all times, to expose wrong and espouse right. I suffer from painful recollections of severe criticism that has been from time to time placed upon me for boldly proclaiming what the truth is and how things are as I actually see them. It is not a logical conclusion that a man who writes of events as they exist necessarily commends them. Because I have stated the position of Hill on free coinage, which can be readily ascertained by any man who has studied his position, it does not follow that I am a Democrat. Because I see the drift of eastern opinion and realize the restless demand of an anxious people it does not follow that I am a supporter of Pennoyer, Waite or Lewelling. I hold my political conviction as I do my religion, as a sacred personality. Painfully conscious of adverse criticism in the past, feeling that some people would rather condemn than commend, I make the above statement and feel that my duty is to speak the truth at all times shall never be swayed from through fear of criticism of enemies, or through a desire of commendation of faithful friends.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 28, 1893.

Nevada Wool Growers.

A meeting of the wool growers of Nevada will be held in Reno on the 20th instant. It is desirable that there be a full attendance. The wool industry like all others is depressed and those engaged in it wish to consult as to the best means to adopt to keep it on a paying basis. Every sheep owner in the state should attend the meeting.

Removal.

The Swiss saloon has been removed from Center street to Virginia street in Peter Saturn's new brick building next to Fraser's meat market. It is now opened as the Swiss Hotel, and will furnish first-class accommodations for families as well as the general public.
